Indoor snow ski slopes near me

Ski fans in New York can now hit the slopes all year round without even leaving the metro area as Big Snow officially opens the American Dream. The long-awaited indoor ski slope, open Thursday, is the newest attraction at the East Rutherford, NJ, complex that also hosts an indoor Nickelodeon Universe theme park and rink. It will eventually be home to a NYC-themed aquarium and water park, as well as hundreds of shops. The new 16-storey slope features four acres of skiable terrain with 5,500 tons of man-made snow and a 160-foot drop to test even the most advanced skiers and snowboarders. And the best part is the temperature: 28 degrees all year round. People associate East Coast skiing and snowboarding with ice. The reason why this happens is because in an outdoor environment here in the Northeast, there's a lot of changing weather and you go through freeze and thaw cycles in a way that creates ice, Hugh Reynolds, vice president of marketing and sales at Snow Operating, which operates the slope, told Travel + Leisure. We have the luxury of controlling the weather indoors. Reynolds said snow is made every night after the indoor mountain closes. It is then groomed and allowed to sit before more snow is made so every morning our guests receive fresh tracks. The park is able to carry 1,100 gallons of snow every hour. It's got a nice squeak at it, he said. It's not powder snow, it's definitely groomed snow, but it's good quality snow, it holds the edge well, it's super predictable. The room was quite small and the bathroom was quite small. Beginners can start out at the training hill, but more advanced skiers and riders can hit the main slope, which is divided into two passes: an intermediate blue run for those who want a challenge and a black diamond expert run for those who really know their way around the mountain. There is also a terrain park to tumble your best jumps and tricks. The slope will be open from 10 .m to 10 pages.m - late enough to settle down for a really special hot chocolate and listen to DJ spin tunes after a long day of working up a sweat on skis. To be able to take your family on a trip to New York City to experience a Broadway show, go to the Statue of Liberty, eat amazing restaurants, and then take a day trip here in the middle of summer or winter... and do both on one [trip], it's pretty special, Reynolds said. Now that winter has arrived, it's time to embrace the chill by getting out and hitting the slopes in one of these family-friendly ski areas near NYC.
